

Jeff began his legal career at one of Atlanta's largest law firms. He holds a JD from Vanderbilt University and a BA from the University of Mississippi, where he graduated with honors. Jeff attended law school on the exclusive Harry S. Truman Scholarship, which is awarded annually to only a handful of students nationwide.

As a business owner, Jeff Brown knows what you deal with on a daily basis. He's worked inside some of the nation's most prestigious companies, handling everything from routine vendor contracts to billion dollar transactions that would transform a company.

Jeff's clients never fail to comment on his ability to make the complex simple. Or his capacity to avoid legal jargon and focus instead on how the law and business strategy intersect in a particular transaction or negotiation.

Because Jeff used to hire and fire lawyers in law firms, he knows how critical it is to be truly responsive, to staff matters smartly, and to get the deal done successfully, effectively and efficiently. He'll show you how to leverage your in-house resources and support them with proven, reliable, results-oriented counsel that knows your business.
